

ABSTRACT

A tank for receiving a carbon- and hydrogen-containing fluid for supplying a fuel cell system with an operating medium has an inlet and an outlet for the fluid and at least one straining means for the fluid arranged between the inlet and the outlet.